Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

OUR editorial attacking the proposal to place a tax on the consumers of natural gas because (1) they are city-dwellers, (2) they are only 27 per cent of the state's population, and (3) it is unjust to ask 27 per cent to pay the debts of all the people—this attack, I say, leads L. E. Phillips of Wabbaseka, Ark., to make the counter-attack that municipal plant towns like Hope are "holding out" on their country friends because municipal plants are exempt from taxation.

600 Women Hear Mrs. McDonald in Her First Session

Best First-Day Audience in 5 Years of Cooking Schools

FREE AT SAENGER

Star's 6th Annual School at 2 P. M. Every Afternoon

Six hundred women crowded the main floor of the Saenger theater Tuesday afternoon as the Star's sixth annual free cooking school opened with Mrs. Martha McDonald presiding in her model kitchen on the stage.

It was the largest first-day audience since the Cooking School was inaugurated in 1929 by the newspaper and the food and home appliance advertising accounts of this city.

Automobiles were parked more than a block each way from the theater by women who braved an all-day rainstorm to turn out for the first performance of the most popular annual show in the city.

Mrs. McDonald was introduced to the audience at 2 o'clock by A. H. Washburn, publisher of The Star, and proceeded with her first lecture-demonstration, the audience taking notes of her recipes and procedure.

On the stage and throughout the theater were the displays of the food and home appliance companies which are co-operating with The Star in presenting this annual culinary show.

The Cooking School continues every afternoon at 2 o'clock through Friday. In the meantime there will be no matinee picture performances at the Saenger until Saturday.

Manager Swanke is presenting "Dinner at Eight" for the last time Tuesday night. On Wednesday night he will show the Julia Child Hospital benefit picture, "As a Husband Go," featuring Warner Baxter; and Thursday and Friday nights the feature will be "Design for Living," the lively comedy starring Gary Cooper, Freddie March and Miriam Hopkins.

Elwood Hatch was held under bond here Tuesday after his arrest by Officers Burke and Turner for possession of a cargo of liquor.

An automobile accident was responsible for his arrest. Sunday night when he was entering the city limits of Hope from the direction of Lewisville his car struck a second automobile, tearing a wheel off it. The accident was near the high school building.

Officers, when investigating, found nine half-gallons jars and one quart of whisky in the Hatch automobile. A number of other jars containing liquor were broken from the impact.

A companion of Hatch, believed to have been a woman, disappeared, officers said. Hatch is scheduled to get a preliminary hearing in municipal court next Monday.

House Votes to Abandon Refunding

Favors Enactment Moratorium Law by Vote 48 to 37

Mason, of Camden, Declares Present Session "Waste of Money"

LIQUOR IS BEATEN

Tom Terral Urges Honorable Effort to Pay Highway Debt

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The house Tuesday favored abandoning the attempt to enact a new refunding law and instead enact a mortgage moratorium law similar to Minnesota's.

The vote was 48 to 37 on a resolution embodying this sentiment. Before this, the house voted 63 to 23 to reject a resolution memorializing Governor Futrell to include liquor-control legislation in his call for a new special session.

Mason, of Camden county, introduced the resolution asking the governor to call the new session to pass "a moratorium law to protect our people in the future, and at the same time to stop the useless expense of this body remaining in session at this time to consider a bond refunding law that will become unnecessary as soon as the proper moratorium law is enacted."

Draft Moratorium Bohlinger, of Vell county, and Senator Levin were named to draft the moratorium law in a concurrent resolution. The senate, meanwhile, debated a resolution by Senator Norfleet providing for adjournment of the session and development of an entirely new refunding bill by the committee.

After a prolonged debate the resolution was defeated overwhelmingly. The governor would be shorn of his power to approve or disapprove actions of the State Board under a refunding bill introduced by Harkin, of Lincoln county, co-author of the resolution for investigation of the state prison administration.

Refunding Cost LITTLE ROCK.—An estimate of annual revenue requirements to carry out the proposed refunding plan during the first six years, prepared by the office of State Comptroller Griffin Smith Monday at the request of sponsors of the refunding legislation, showed that gross revenues of $8,992,992 will be required the first year and $11,000,000 the sixth year, which will be the first year that full interest will be paid on direct highway bonds.

Revenues under the proposed bill were estimated at $9,050,000 the first year and $11,000,000 the sixth year. It was estimated that license fees will increase $600,000 a year by 1940 and that gasoline tax receipts will increase approximately $1,200,000 by that time.

Debt service requirements would increase from $5,351,502 the first year to $6,342,084 in 1940.

Margins Estimated Margin of estimated gross revenues over minimum requirements the first year would be approximately $58,000, but minimum requirements the sixth year would be considerably above the estimated revenue for that year.

Year-to-year requirements for debt service were based on the assumption that the sinking fund or redemption accounts could be used to retire bonds.

Continued efforts to have the 50 per cent cash aid amendment for municipal districts eliminated on the ground that its inclusion would make it impossible to carry out the refunding plan, even if the change should be made.

Handsomeness, Eh

I. Brummett Wins Prize for Algebra

George Hosmer Also Solves Tough One a Few Hours Later

"I will pay," wrote M. Becky of Hope in classified ad starting on last Friday's Star, "one dollar for the first solution to an algebra problem."

Whereupon the people of Hope solved the question of what to do with their spare time. They started working algebra problems. They worked on one problem in particular. They wanted Mr. Becky's dollar.

The whole town worked for it. The ad appeared Friday for the first time. Saturday passed and nobody had a solution.

It was a pretty fair problem. The old algebra book just gouted and hung on through Saturday night, well into Sunday. Late Sunday, however, the problem capitulated, and Mr. Becky's dollar was duly gathered in by one of our esteemed local mathematicians, Ivis Brummett.

George Hosmer, foreman of The Star, also solved it, but a few hours later than Mr. Brummett.

Here's the problem:  $X + Y = 10$  and  $XY = 24$ . Solve for X and Y.

And here's the correct answer:  $X = 6$  and  $Y = 4$ .

Thanks heaven that's over (just an algebraic note).

Half of Brinker Jury Is Selected

Young Iceman on Trial for Life in Bowie County, Texas

TEXARKANA.—Six of the jurors who will decide whether Ed Brinker, 23, shall live or die had been selected when fifth judicial district court adjourned late Monday after a grueling, all-day battle of attorneys over the venire list.

Brinker, on trial for his life on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of P. A. McWain, 37-year-old Texarkana lunch stand proprietor, last June, at times appeared vitally interested in the proceedings and at other times yawned and looked bored.

The alleged slayer was dressed in a dark blue suit, bright blue tie, grey shirt and black shoes. His wife sat by his side throughout the day and his father, F. R. Brinker, of Sulphur Springs, owner of eight live manure-dumping plants in East Texas, was an interested spectator.

19 Sweaters Are Awarded Bobcats; Hard Games Ahead

Little Rock, Fordyce, Hot Springs on 1934 Schedule

NINE GAMES AT HOME

Crack State Elevens Will Appear Here Next Fall

Nineteen members of Hope High School football team and the business manager were awarded sweaters Tuesday morning during activity period at the high school building.

Simultaneously the 1934 football schedule was announced. Eleven games will be played, nine of which have been scheduled on the local field.

Crack Teams Coming Little Rock, Fordyce and Hot Springs, all contenders for the state title last year, will come here next fall.

The Athletic committee of the school board, composed of Miss Beryl Henry, Dr. Don Smith, Robert Wilson and Roy Anderson, were present and delivered short speeches.

Representatives of the Young Business Men's association—a live wire organization behind high school athletics—were also present. It was partly through cooperation of the association that purchase of the sweaters were made possible.

Those receiving red and white sweaters were: Captain Pete Brown, Jack Turner, J. W. Harper, Kenneth Madison, Luther Sparks, Nolan Corbille, Murfin Hargis, Willard Anderson, R. C. Kennedy, Billy Green, Cecil Houston, Frank Drake, Clement Brownfield, Raymond Urban, Dennis Richards, Horace Mitchell, Ralph Owens, Zeylon Holly, Hugh Chamberlain and Business Manager Roy Anderson.

The awarding of his sweater came as a surprise to him. It was a tribute by Coach Jones and his players for cooperation and loyalty that Mr. Anderson has shown toward high school athletics.

Prospects for a strong team next fall are very bright. Coach Teddy Jones said in announcing the schedule. Out of the 19 letter men this year, all will return next season with the exception of four. They are Jack Turner, halfback, and Hugh Chamberlain, center, both regulars. The other two are Billy Green and Ralph Owens, substitutes.

Next Fall's Schedule

French Governor Dies in Air Liner

10 Killed as Tri-Motor Crashes on Return to France

CORBIGNY, France.—(AP)—Five high French officials and five other persons burned to death when a giant tri-motored airplane, the Emeraude, pride of the French commercial fleet, fell in flames and exploded near here Monday night on a return flight from French Indo-China.

The big four-ton plane caught fire apparently from a leaky gas line while battling a violent wind and hailstorm over Nievre Department.

The Emeraude exploded when the pilot tried to land on an open field a mile north of here and 175 miles southeast of Paris. The 10 occupants were imprisoned in the cabin.

The Emeraude was on its first long trip for which Air Minister Pierre Cot sent M. Chumie and two lieutenants. The plane was baptized in June, 1933, and made round trip trial flights from Paris to Algiers and Paris to Dakar.

The crash marred the triumphal arrival at Le Bourget Field of the "black squadron" of 28 French planes from a goodwill tour to Africa.

Nevada County Farm Lad Held in Killing

Brozie Elmore, 16, Jailed at Prescott for Shooting of Earl Allen, 30, of Mt. Moriah

PRESCOTT, Ark.—(AP)—Brozie Elmore, 16-year-old Nevada county farm lad, was held in jail here Tuesday charged with the fatal shooting of Earl Allen, 30, of Mt. Moriah community, southwestern Nevada county.

Allen died at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning in Cora Donnell hospital, from the effects of two shotgun wounds. Both loads entered his body about the hips.

The shooting occurred Monday night at the Elmore home, Mt. Moriah community. According to officers the slaying grew out of resentment by Elmore against Allen because the latter's attention to his sisters.

Mrs. Joe Clark, a sister to Elmore, said that Allen appeared Monday night in an intoxicated condition and became abusive.

Elmore surrendered to Sheriff Artice Pittman following the shooting. No date has been set for a preliminary hearing.

Funeral arrangements for Allen were incomplete Tuesday noon. Officers said Allen more or less was a "drifter," appearing in the Moriah community at intervals, and then disappearing.

It could not be learned where his relatives live.

Hospital Benefit Film Wednesday

W. K. Lemley Heads Fund Drive for Julia Chester Institution

W. K. Lemley has been named head of the Hope & Hempstead County Hospital association's annual drive for funds for Julia Chester Hospital.

The five teams report splendid progress being made.

Saenger Theater, as its contribution to Julia Chester Hospital charity fund, will contribute the use of its theater Wednesday night of this week and a liberal percentage of the advance tickets sale to a feature attraction—Warner Baxter and Helen Vinson in "As a Husband Go."

This is an exceptional picture, highly recommended by the theater management—one the public will want to see.

The advance ticket sale is in the hands of 10 teams. A telephone request to any of the following members of the Hospital Board—Mrs. Frank Miles, Mrs. W. Y. Foster, Jr., Mrs. Orrie Reed, Mrs. C. S. Lowthorpe, Mrs. E. O. Wingfield, or Miss Hudson, head nurse at Julia Chester Hospital, E. S. Greening, J. R. Floyd or Carter Johnson—for tickets, will be appreciated, and the tickets will be sent promptly.

For the hospital to benefit, your ticket must be bought before you reach the theater, as the hospital fund does not share in the tickets sold at the box office. The number of charity cases, which the community hospital is being called upon to care for, has been mounting during the present emergency. Hospital care, in numerous cases, means the difference between life and death. You can assist in this vital work by attending Wednesday night's feature attraction at the Saenger theater.

3 More Airports Approved by State

CWA Supervisor Okehs Projects at Ola, Paragould, Ozark

LITTLE ROCK.—Airport projects at Ola, Paragould and Ozark which will furnish employment for CWA workers for 21 days were approved Monday by Charles M. Taylor, state CWA airport supervisor, he announced.

The site at Ola is of particular importance, because of its location directly between Little Rock and Fort Smith, Mr. Taylor said. It will be a new field and the project calls for grading, moving obstructions, building fences and putting up air markings. Employment will be given 71 men at Ola, he said. The field will be a mile and a half northeast of Ola on the highway between Ola and Eardanville.

The Paragould project will give employment to 125 men. The airport will be built on the site of an old landing field and the project calls for tiling, grading, clearing of timber, building fences and widening and lengthening runways. The site is two and a half miles east of Paragould.

The Ozark airport will be located on Highway No. 23, one mile northwest of town and will furnish labor for 70 men, Mr. Taylor said. It will be a new field and will require clearing of timber, grading, fencing and building of runways.

Shoots 2 Guards, Lifts 5 Convicts From Texas Pen

Cigar-Smoking, Two-Gun Woman His Daring Companion

THEY RAID PRISON

Outlaw "Cracks" Eastham State Prison Farm for a Pal

HUNTSVILLE, Texas.—(AP)—Two guards at Eastham State Prison Farm were ambushed and wounded Tuesday by a machine-gunner identified as Clyde Barrow, Southwestern desperado, who effected the release of his pal Raymond Hamilton and four others.

The officers believed Barrow was aided by a gunwoman companion, Bonnie Parker. The guards were ambushed as they took a squad of convicts to work in the fields.

Major Crowson and Olen Bosman, guards, were wounded. Crowson seriously.

Bonnie Parker, a cigar-smoking two-gun woman, has been in many shooting scrapes with Barrow. Barrow is believed by officers to have been connected with the killing of Town Marshal Humphrey at Alma, Ark., to which his brother Buck Barrow confessed before dying from police bullets.

State Kills Liquor Control Measure

Outside of Governor's Call, and House Sustains Decision

LITTLE ROCK.—The alcohol control bill, introduced in the house 10 days ago by Stanfield of Garland, was killed Monday when Speaker Toney held that the measure did not come within the purview of the governor's call for the extraordinary session.

While a proposed amendment to the bill was being discussed on the floor last week, Gooch of Cross raised a point of order that the measure was not within the purview of the call. The speaker withheld his ruling until Monday.

"The primary purpose of this special session is to pass a refunding law," Speaker Toney said in announcing his ruling. "This session would not have been called except for that purpose. To pass a refunding law acceptable to the bondholders requires the raising of additional road revenue over that of last year of $1,437,000, so the primary purpose is to raise money for refunding purposes."

"Therefore, legislation dealing with highway problems generally would be outside the call."

"The liquor control bill undertakes to deal with a new policy involving moral, social and economic questions. It seeks to regulate and control the habits and conduct of people regarding a most vital question. That is its primary purpose. The raising of revenue is a mere incident to that. It certainly is not within the call to legislate upon a question of liquor control which is of vital importance to the people of the whole state. It has no direct relation to the refunding program. The chief end of the liquor control law is regulation—not the raising of money."

"To be within the call to pass a refunding measure, the primary object of the bill must be to raise revenue for that purpose."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Roosevelt Has Good Reason For Soft
Pedal on Virgin Island Rum Plan
Any Boost Welcome to Copper Mighty Trust in Role of Pleader... Bootleg Silver Next Carter Trade Won't Stretch
Veteran Repeat Move Is Spliked.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—"No publicity" was the order when the administration declined to make sugar and rum in the Virgin Islands.

There were good reasons. Lots of people don't want Uncle Sam making rum. Squawks from sugar-raising States were sure to be heard from.

But when Roosevelt quietly signed the order allocating $1,000,000 of public works funds to buy a plant and acquire for production, his idea wasn't to make rum and sugar.

That happens to be the only feasible way in which the Virgin Islands which Hoover called "an effective pothoouse"—can be rehabilitated.

Most of the profits from sale of rum and sugar in this country will go to cane farmers, who will be organized into a co-operative. The project calls for purchase of 4000 acres of cane land, which will be dealt out to hundreds of farmers on the subsistence homestead plan.

The sugar plant, operated by a U.
S. corporation, will buy their crop.
Other farmers will be eligible for the co-op.

A 500,000-gallon still is planned and the islands will produce about 20,000 tons of sugar. When sugar prices are too low to give the cane farmers a decent price, the corporation will step up production of rum.

Right From the Heart
"I thank you for that applause," Senator Capper of Kansas said after his speech to the old age security conference. "When a Republican senator is applauded in Washington these days, gratitude comes from the bottom of his heart."

The Mighty Laid Low
That big bad wolf, Andy Mellon's powerful and monopolistic Aluminum Company of America, has come here as a supplicant—a weakling set upon by the pack.

No one ever expected to live to see this day!
The corporation wants to keep out from under the electrical code. There's a scheme on foot to fix a uniform price for electric cable. Most able is made of copper, but some of aluminum, which is cheaper.

So the aluminum company is making a terrific fuss, claiming it would be at the mercy of copper interests, which would set the same price for both kinds of cable.
Bootleg Silver Next
Then there's silver. Pro-silver senators insist a lot of it will be bootlegged this year, now that the treasury is to pay 64 cents an ounce for the newly mined product.

Silver production runs about 24-30,000,000 ounces a year, but the temptation will be to smuggle in and bootleg other than newly mined metal and run it through the smelters for the higher price.

Since it became illegal to hold gold, many hoarders have been piling up silver, and speculators, according to reports here, have vast quantities of it.
Of course the big increase in silver output will be ascribed to greater mining activity caused by the price boost.

Can't Stretch Garters
Most men's garters will continue to be made in summer and fall. Efforts at an NRA code hearing to have production and employment spread the year around were unsuccessful, though it was hard to see why Christmas garter boxes couldn't just as well be prepared in the spring.

The garter and many other industries, asking special exemption for overtime work on grounds of seasonal activity, have laid their inability to spread the work over the year in problems of credit.

Slang Makes Lazy Minds—Catches Words
An Easy Way Out of Thinking.

We might just as well try to stop next month from coming as to get Billy to drop his "Oh gee's" and "Oh, boy," and "You bet."

Of course we may be able to cut the average in two and reduce his expletives to two a minute instead of ten, but it is as natural for a spirited boy to use slang as it is for him to breathe. We must not get too blue-nosed or blue-blooded or just blue about it. It's a waste of time and very good energy—for us.

There is, however, too much slang today. Not slang exactly, but smart quibs, distorted words and a silly jumbo of slush that doesn't mean anything. It is a sort of "slum" composed of gangster lingo, movie leftovers, and ha-ha writings that tickle the ear but don't make sense. If a radio comedienne repeats any dumb word often enough the dictionary has to be instantly revised, for a hundred million people pick it up and there it is to stay in our midst for archaologists to try and analyze five thousand years hence.

Real English Neglected
My greatest objection to slang is not its vulgarity, but its tendency to crowd out real English. If any one ever says to me again, "It's up to you," I think I'll croak. If he tells me his new car cost "a grand," I am sure to pass out, and if he says "He's on the spot," I'll cash in.

Then if he brags about his newest blonde being a "wow," or his "giggle being a stepper," and says he's "carrying a torch" for her, I won't be here to hear it.

As a matter of fact, neither I nor many of my vintage can follow the conversation of about half the young people today. One gets "high" when he isn't quite drunk, or "corned" when he is. A boy with a new job is being "weaned." A girl with a new dress buys a "hugger."

Induces Mental Apathy
However, catch words such as these aren't my real trouble. My weariness is caused by the mental laziness of people in thinking up real words.
It is so much easier to say, "Oh, yeah!"
or "Hot dog!" than to prod one's brain into action—easier to say "Sez you," or "C'm on, some time," than to make a real answer to a remark. Evasion, lack of wit, snoring brains! The slangier we get as a people, the dumber we become.

I could stand almost anything if it were original and showed that the author's blood supply above the neck hadn't been cut off. I know one young chap who says, "Believe you me," to everything. Some time I shall have to hunt up my Maxim Silencer, a broom, and maybe he'll believe me then, that people are sick and tired of him.

Slang isn't so bad as the mental apathy behind it. Third edition slang is seldom funny. It is a bore and a "cold pancake" to me. I hope it's "aerts to you" too, so that you can discourage your young "janes" and "guys" from going clear dinged.

causes premature wrinkles, scaliness and all sorts of unpleasant conditions of the skin.

First of all, if you know that your skin lacks natural oil the best thing for you to do is to put oil into the pores and tissues.

You need a muscle oil and a reliable tissue cream. And always cleanse your face with cleansing cream, followed by a mild skin tonic instead of using soap and water.

A good nightly treatment for dry skin takes only a few minutes and will prove beneficial.
When your face and neck have been cleansed with cream and then patted by a cotton pad dipped in skin tonic, smooth on a few drops of muscle oil.
Then apply tissue cream generously and, with upward and outward strokes, smooth and massage it right into your skin. When you have finished go to bed, leaving the cream and oil on all night.

In the morning, clean the face with cream and skin tonic and then put on a good foundation lotion. You can get one which will not dry the complexion and will protect it from dust, dirt, wind, sun and the like.

Use a powder which contains no lead tinting or other ingredients which tend to dry out the skin.

NEXT: More about dry skin.

Babe Ruth Signs for $35,000 Year

Sluggish Takes Cut of $17,-

NEW YORK.—(P)—Babe Ruth took a salary cut of $17,000 Monday with a big grin on his wide and florid coun-

The 40-year-old slugger of the New calls for $35,000 for 1934 and made it equally clear he has no understand-

"I have no understanding of any kind with Ruth about the future.

tells me he is in better shape than last season and that he hopes to play at least 100 games. I hope he does and I hope he hits a lot of home runs."
"Ruth asked me what I was willing to offer and I said $25,000," explained Col. Ruppert. "He replied he didn't want to sign for less than $35,000. I said 'will you sign for $35,000?' He re-

DALLAS, Texas.—(P)—An outbreak

Dr. J. W. Bass said officials were

The New Crusade Day
I have no fears for our women they will never content themselves with remaining stationary in methods or in policy, much less sound a retreat in their splendid warfare against the saloon in law and the saloon in politics. The tides of the mother heart will not change; we can count on them always.

The voice of Miriam still cheers the brave advance, and all along the line we hear the battle cry: "Speak Unto the Children of Israel That They Go Forward."—Frances E. Willard.

The New Crusade Day Meeting, sponsored by the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Don Smith on South Elm street, with Mrs. W. T. Franks, Mrs. Verdy-Crutchfield as associate hostesses. An offering will be taken for the Lillian Stevens Legislative Fund.

Among the visitors to the Sewing Room Project on Monday, were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Rogers and Mrs. E. M. Bonds of Blewins and Mrs. Burt Scott, supervisor of the McCaskill Sewing Project, which has just begun to function.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Roebuck and daughter, Janette, of Texarkana, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Jewell and other relatives.

Circle No. 5 of the W. M. U. of the First Baptist church held their January meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alton Honeycutt, with Mrs. Philip Foster and Mrs. Ed Hearn as associate hostesses. A very helpful devotional was given by Mrs. Wallace R. Rogers, reading as her theme, "The Gospel of the Kingdom," with the 4th chapter of Matthew as Scripture reference. Murphy, Mrs. Fred Russell and Mrs. Jesse Brown. The business period was conducted by Mrs. Hugh Smith, leader. During the social hour a delicious salad course was served, at 2:30, including four new members and four visitors.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Episcopal church held their regular meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. M. Finley on South Elm street. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. D. M. Finley, vice president, who also gave the devotional. The regular routing of business was dispatched during the business hour, the treasurer reporting the United Thank Offering and the report for the year's work had been sent to the Diocesan treasurer. Following the business period, the hostess served a most tempting salad course with hot chocolate.

Father's Night sponsored by the Junior-Senior High P. T. A. was observed on Monday night at the high school, with 115 answering to the roll call. Each parent was shown to a room, where he followed the regular schedule of his child, meeting the different teachers. you can't tax publicly-owned property because it isn't conducted for gain, and because in the literal meaning of the phrase nobody owns it and therefore there is nobody to pay the tax even if it were levied.

X X X
The private power companies will tell you Hope has a million-dollar plant, and it ought to be taxed—because the private power plants are taxed.

This isn't one of those arguments as to which came first: The chicken or the egg?

There's no question about it. The people of every community have the inherent right to provide for their public needs. They have the right to organize police and fire departments. They have the right to put up public buildings. They have the right to construct streets—and water and light plants.

These are a public service which, fundamentally, taxes may be LEVIED FOR—NOT LEVIED AGAINST.

Spokesmen for private power companies try to trick you into saying black is white.

Now as to the taxable-wealth figures of the power companies—these are the result not of their service to the community but of their capitalization of that service in terms of dividends.

They say Hope's plant is worth a million dollars.

They don't mean Hope has a million dollars worth of buildings and boilers and generators and transformers and power-lines.

What they mean is that if a private company owned the Hope plant it might earn dividends on a basis of a million-dollar investment.

But when the people of Hope wanted electric lights there was no private company to build a plant for them. Progressive citizens put one up, patriotically sold it to the community many years ago; and decades later it stands as a remarkable achievement in municipal ownership.

"If" a private company owned it this plant would pay taxes to Hempstead county.

That's about as practical as to day-dream about what you would do if you owned the Chase National Bank. Somebody else thought it up before you.

The world is full of day-dreamers. Not the least of them being the private power concerns, yelping because the citizens of Hope a generation ago had the foresight to develop their own utility instead of paying outsiders handsomely to develop it for them.

be acceptable to bondholders. The committee bill provides for refunding the total cost of paying highway continuations on practically the same basis as the old road district bonds, except that the refunding certificates of indebtedness would run five years longer.

It was said that a movement has been launched to deal with the municipal paying districts in a separate bill, which would levy a tax on natural gas to be used exclusively to pay for highway continuations through cities and towns.

A bill is pending in the House proposing to tax natural gas one cent per 1,000 cubic feet. It has been estimated that such a tax would yield around $500,000 a year, which sponsors of the bill believe would be sufficient to refund the municipal paying aid certificates on a satisfactory basis.

Terral Urges Enactment
LITTLE ROCK—Former Gov. Tom J. Terral, in a statement issued Monday stressed the need for enactment of a refunding measure by the legislature and expressed confidence that such a bill would be passed shortly. His statement follows:

"We must face the facts in connection with our road bond indebtedness. As governor of the state, in 1926, I opposed with all the power of the governor's office the issuing of bonds. I emphasized the dangers underlying such procedure. I took the position at that time that the only safe procedure was 'to pay as we go.'

"On the day I retired as governor, I read my message to the General Assembly, warning that body that it was unwise to involve the state in such heavy bonded indebtedness as now confronts us, but the bonds were issued, and these bonds are burdensome and oppressive. It is no time to argue whether I was right then, or whether the administration that followed me were wrong. These debts have been created and the state shall not repudiate her debts, but pay her debts.

"Governor Futrell is doing everything that is humanly possible to solve these troublesome problems, and it is your duty and my duty to join with him and the General Assembly in the passage of a sane and sound refunding bill in order that this state may be redeemed and her credit saved.

"Any citizen will frankly admit that the situation is grave, and that each and every member of the General Assembly must vote to pass a refunding bill if the state is to be saved from a far more serious situation. I predict that within the next few hours the membership of the General Assembly will rally and pass a refunding bill that will meet the honest requirements of the state's creditors."

Fascism Favored by English Paper

London Daily Mail Praises Hitler, Mussolini Style of Rule

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—The London Daily Mail came out strongly Monday for adoption of Fascism in Great Britain.

A three-column editorial by Lord Rothermere lauded the methods of Mussolini and Hitler. "Hurrah for the Blackshirts," glared a three-column headline.

The editorial lashed at the "half-hearted sentimental policy" of the old parties and made an appeal to the youth of England to support Sir Oswald Mosley and his Blackshirts. Lord Rothermere's creed of Fascism had hitherto been regarded as more or less of a joke by the general public, despite the support given the movement by devoted Blackshirt followers.

"The Blackshirts proclaim the fact, which the old politicians will never face," the editorial read, "that the new age requires new methods and new men."

The Daily Mail, which is an avowed opponent of the present government, said it was certain that Sir Oswald could "do more in a conference at Berlin to straighten out the kinks in Anglo-German relations than any half a dozen elderly politicians whom the cabinet persists in sending on fruitless missions to Geneva."

It called Italy and Germany "the best governed nations in Europe today."

By treating their seed with radio waves, a German scientist succeeded in producing certain vegetables in half their normal time, even when they were grown in poor soil.

'Stagger' System to Employ 50,000

Order in Arkansas Reduces Hours in Rural Areas Only

LITTLE ROCK.—The "staggered" CWA system of employment ordered last Friday by Harry L. Hopkins, federal administrator at Washington, is expected to add approximately 50,000 more to payrolls in Arkansas, according to estimates made by state CWA officials. The order applies only to rural communities and to towns with less than 2,500 population.

Wherever effective, the time of those now employed will be cut to 15 hours per week except on road jobs where it will be 20 hours. In these districts, 80 per cent of the original quotas will be assigned in addition to those now on the rolls. The new workers also will be limited to 15 and 20 hours per week. It is believed that 75 per cent of the workers now employed will be affected by the order. There were 74,550 workers on CWA and women's service projects the week ending January 12 of which 12,572 were women.

A total of $12,039,556.22 for CWA projects alone had been approved through January 12 by W. R. Dyess, state director and R. C. Limerick state engineer. 54 projects calling for the expenditure of $164,779.09 in Hempstead county were approved.

E. A. Hodson, state nutritionist for the ERC has announced that 34,375 bushels of sweet potatoes and 19,000 bushels of peanuts will be purchased from Arkansas farmers January 22. The purchases will be used for distribution to the needy as surplus commodities. The allocation for Hempstead county is 800 bushels of potatoes and 225 bushels of peanuts.

Mystery Figure in Chicago Trial

Janitor's Friend Brought Into Wynkoop Case

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Dr. Alice L. Wynkoop sat visibly unmoved in court Monday.

Not even when she faced Burdine H. Gardner, father of the talented young daughter-in-law she is accused of murdering, did Dr. Alice show any sign of emotional stress. Gardner has been one of her most bitter accusers.

Summoned as the state's first witness, Gardner testified that his first wife, the mother of Rheta, died in an Indianapolis insane asylum. He testified that a few hours after Rheta's death Dr. Wynkoop cautioned him

Wynkoop Trial Judge Named

Judge Joseph B. David, above, Chicago, criminal court jurist, will preside during the trial of Dr. Alice L. Wynkoop, charged with murder in the slaying of her daughter-in-law, Rheta. Trial has been set for Jan. 4.

to say only that the cause was tuberculosis if police asked him about the demise of his first wife.

The defense, meanwhile, inserted into the case a new and mysterious figure—a man identified only as Simmons. Attorney W. W. Smith, chief attorney for the defense, said Simmons was a friend of John Van Pelt, janitor of the Wynkoop home.

"Simmons had done odd jobs around the Wynkoop home—and Dr. Wynkoop subsequently had ordered Van Pelt never to have him around the place again," Attorney Smith said in his opening address to the jury.

Claims Doctor Innocent

Dr. Wynkoop knew nothing of Rheta's death until she came upon the girl's body lying on a surgical operating table in the basement, shot through the back and with evidence of chloroform having been administered, Smith contended.

He declared Dr. Alice, 62-year-old and infirm from illness, had borne a love for Rheta equal to that she felt for any of her own children, and that for five years she had tried to make the young woman and her son, Earle, the husband, happy.

Rheta, Smith asserted he would prove, suffered from delusions of illness and from an omnipresent fear that she would die of tuberculosis.

He said the young woman complained of illness that several physicians determined was only feigned.

"On one occasion, Rheta lay prone on a bed and declared she was dying," Smith said. "Her eyes were closed and her body rigid. A physician from outside the family was called into consultation."

"That physician commanded the remainder of the family to leave the room after her entreaties brought no response from the girl. Then she went close to the bed and whispered: 'It's all right; open your eyes.' Rheta did, promptly."

Sought to Keep Couple Together

Smith said Dr. Alice had welcomed Rheta into her home as a daughter, provided her and Earle with comfortable living quarters, supported them, gave Rheta money for expensive music lessons and tried to bring the young couple to a happy married life even after they had begun drifting apart.

Negotiations by Dr. Alice with several insurance agents to obtain a policy on Rheta's life were recounted by Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty in his opening statement.

He charged the elderly physician told at least two falsehoods in making applications for insurance; that she bought a $5,000 double indemnity policy on Rheta even when there was no money to pay premiums on insurance already in force on other members of the family. "And on the very day that this policy was delivered to his mother," Dougherty said, "we will show that Earle Wynkoop went to gunsmiths and obtained cartridges for a revolver. He delivered the cartridges with a revolver on that day—November 11, just 10 days before Rheta was killed—to Dr. Wynkoop."

Married Flirts

WHEN HERE TODAY
MABEL MORRIS and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA MORTIMER and MARK BLOOM. Lila expects to be in a hurry, while Gypsy is going to go on with her job. The next night Gypsy and Tom are going to their new home. TOMMY, MARK, GRAY, an old friend of Tom's, later came with her and Gypsy to see them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

The streets were full of scurrying crowds. Already, although it was early afternoon, the lamps were lighted, moons glowing in a blue dusk. All along the avenue these lamps made a chain and people, hurrying past through the snow, scuffed on without noticing. The shop windows were gay with tinsel and ribboned boxes and glittering things to eat and to wear. The trouble was, Tom Weaver wanted none of these. He wandered along, with his coat collar up, staring and puzzling about what to get Gypsy. She should have (he thought) that delicious silvery squirrel coat in the corner shop. She should have a glittering string of real jewels to adorn her pretty throat. And he groaned to himself for a stupid fool because he could not buy her these things. Christmas! Oh, it would be a glorious thing if a man could go off with his hand in his pocket and buy what he saw—this and that and this—without ever asking the cost or counting it afterward! Only the trouble was some of us have to consider the landlord and the grocer and the tailor. We'd love to make a grand gesture, Tom told himself, only we're worn and wage slaves and we haven't brains enough to corral enough money to do it.

So he trudged along, staring moodily into first this window and then that one. Christmas was only four days away and still he had nothing for Gypsy. Ten dollars—fifteen—twenty—that was the very most he could spend.

At last he bought her a bottle of scent—mimosa, it was—and a book she had been wanting and a pair of gloves, long, sleek, white ones. Christmas morning he would add roses and her favorite candy. But he was still dissatisfied. His mood of discouragement hung over him. It was a half day at the office. He had nothing further to do and Gypsy herself was shopping. But he was not conscious of the Christmas spirit. He was disgusted with himself for not being a captain of finance—like Marko Broughton.

MEANTIME, Gypsy went briskly about her purchasing. She had things for Mums and Daddy and the twins. She had a resplendent rose crepe kimono for Clytie. But Tom? He was last on her list, because closest and best beloved. He needed—oh, everything! Socks and ties and shirts and gloves. But what prosaic things, thought Gypsy, humorously, to put on the altar of the loved one!

What she wanted, really, was to buy him one of those water-thin look a little like a corpulent opera singer. Gypsy was conscious of heads turning to watch them as they left the shop. She was just about to give him her hand in parting when a great car slid up from no where and a uniformed man hold open the door.

"Nonsense, my dear, I'm dropping you wherever you want to go," Marko handed her in, and a fur rug was wrapped around her wet gashes. The door shut noiselessly and the motor slid forward. Marko held a lighter to his cigaret.

"Look here," he said, exhaling slowly. "I've an idea for you to earn some extra money. You have Saturdays, haven't you? Ah, then, you remember how you admired my library. It's sadly in need of cataloguing. Something I've never got around to. You could do it for me."

GYPHY'S eyes were round with pleasure and excitement. This was something else again. Taking help from Marko was, of course, quite out of the question. He must understand, once and for all, that she wasn't in the class with the pretty ladies who "worked him" for the sweets of life. But if she could do some real work for him, work that needed to be done, that was another matter.

"I—you're terribly nice to think of it," she murmured.

The details were arranged. Marko was most businesslike about it all. No one in his senses, thought Gypsy with pride, could have suspected him of an unworthy motive. His man would be there to receive her, everything would be ready. This was what? The twenty-first? Well, she could start work the following week, if she liked.

"And, of course, I shall give you an advance," Marko smiled.

Gypsy protested, but to no avail. A banknote was pressed into her reluctant palm. Marko had given her address to the chauffeur through the speaking tube, but she had scarcely noticed that they were drawing up before her own door.

"Saturday, then!" Marko handed her out as though she were a princess.

Gypsy turned and waved goodby. Then she sped like an arrow through the flying snowflakes into the lobby. Surely that was Tom's tall figure she had seen, just rounding the corner. She was conscious of heightened color and quickened heartbeat. She told herself that Tom needn't know about her pact with Marko just now—he might not like it, and there was no use quarreling about it.

The hallway held the elevator door wide and Gypsy slipped within, stuffing the bill into her purse. She had scarcely done so before Tom strode through the lobby.

"Here comes Miss Weaver," the boy grinned. Gypsy was terribly nervous. Had Tom seen her enter? His look of pleased surprise and his greeting dispelled the suspicion. The words were on the tip of her tongue. "I just ran into Marko Broughton..."

But she fought them back. Something warned her this was not a propitious time to tell him. The banknote burned, it seemed to her, through the thin lining of her purse.

Oh, she would buy Tom the platinum watch. She would give him a really nice Christmas present.

Because she had taken a lightning glance at the note just before Tom entered. It was a $50 bill.

He'll soon hit the circus trail.

Scanning New Books

BY BRUCE CATTON
The current mystery story season is made immeasurably brighter by the fact that Dashiell Hammett has written a new book. It is called, "The Thin Man," and it is by all odds the most entertaining detective story to reach the market in many months.

Mr. Hammett introduces us to a retired private detective who goes back to visit his old haunts in New York and runs smack into a murder. He has to look into the crime, for the simple reason that some people seem to suspect him of having committed it; once he does, the fun begins.

It is an odd fact that in this, the best of recent mystery stories, the mystery itself is of secondary importance. It's an ingenious tale, to be sure, marvelously puzzling, but the perverse, unimpaired, infinitely hard-boiled characters Mr. Hammett brings in are so interesting that you often forget all about the mystery.

He gives a photographically accurate picture of a certain kind of metropolitan society—the fringe of the half-world; it will hold your interest, make you laugh, and, now and then, give you a shudder. All in all, it's simply swell. Knopf is offering it at $2.

"McKee of Centre Street," by Helen Reilly (Crime Club: $2) is a run-of-mine affair designed to show that the New York police really have a very efficient crime-detecting machine.

A lovely dancer is shot to death in a night club, and the cops finally get her murderer by the heels. The book is more or less interesting for its picture of the New York police in action.

Then there's a very uninspired yarn called "Death in Darkness," by Charles Barry (Dutton: $2), which has to do with a man who is shot to death in the basement of an English country house. A shell-shocked war veteran and some vaguely sinister females go wandering through its pages, and in the end, after a great effort, the author brings us to a neat but unconvincing solution.

Economical Lamb Dishes for Your Menu

By SISTER MARY
NEA Service Staff Writer

Careful economies often make it possible to live well on a comparatively small outlay of money. We may prefer lamb chops, but they cost much more than the same amount of meat taken from the breast or shoulder. Leg of lamb also is a delicious and popular cut, but a small family may find difficulty in disposing of it without growing tired of it. More-

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Baked bananas, cereal cooked with dates, cream, broiled bacon, crisp toast, marmalade, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Oyster stew, crack-cracks, stuffed celery, tapioca cream pudding, grape juice.

Dinner: Fricassee of lamb, mashed potatoes, beets in orange juice, jellied cabbage salad, chocolate roll, milk, coffee.

over, for every leg of lamb someone must purchase and use the forequarter, which consist of the front legs and shoulders.

Each quarter usually weighs from six to nine pounds, but the butcher will be glad to cut it to such sized portions as his customer wants. There is little difference of bone and waste in the forequarter and in the chops, and the price usually is considerably less in the forequarter.

Forequarter Tougher
The forequarter meat is naturally tougher than that of the hindquarter and in tough meats the connective tissue is the part that must receive special attention.

By separating the meat, bone and fat, each one can be used to advantage. The meat can be put through the food chopper, ready for attractive chopped "steaks." The bone may be used for broth, and the fat can be chopped and easily tried out to be used for pan-frying.

Variety in dishes made with the forequarter of lamb often may be accomplished by using suitable sauces and other accompaniments such as rice and spaghetti.

The small family will find two pounds of lamb from the forequarter sufficient for its needs. The larger family, of course, will need more in proportion to its size.

Ways to Prepare
When the meat is left in one piece it can be boiled, roasted, braised with vegetables or cooked and pressed and served cold.

Cut in pieces, Irish stew, fricassee of lamb, casserole of lamb and lamb curry are sure to please.

When the meat and bone are separated before cooking, several pleasing dishes may be concocted. The pieces of clear meat can be pounded thin—"Frenched." These are broiled and served with minted current jelly. Or, instead of flattening the filets, each one can be wrapped with a strip of breakfast bacon, held with a toothpick and broiled or baked in a hot oven.

If the meat is chopped, it can be made into cakes like Hamburg steaks and broiled or fried.

The bone can be broiled to make broth or stock. If the meat, with vegetables and rice, is added to this broth, a nourishing dish known as Scotch broth is made.

Chopped lamb combined with crack-cracks and eggs makes a delectable meat loaf. Served with creamed peas, it vies with lamb chops for popularity.

The nutritive value of this inexpensive meat is quite as great as that of the choicer, more costly cuts. The flavor is just as delicious in the shoulder as in the leg.

Simplifying the Puzzle of Uncle Sam's Budgets

TREMENDOUS increase in government expenses outlined in President Roosevelt's budget message is strikingly shown for the busy reader by these charts and figures which give actual expenditures for the fiscal year of July 1, 1932, to June 30, 1933, and estimates of expenditures for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1934, and June 30, 1935.

They show that the cost for 1934 is nearly double that of 1933 and that expenditures, though greatly reduced in 1935, still are at a high level.

1934 Expenditures (Estimated)

Total—$9,591,178,467

Emergency—$6,357,486,700

Including:

RFC $3,669,740,300
Civil Works... 400,000,000
Bank deposit insurance 150,000,000
Conservation Corps 311,705,600
TVA... 19,000,000
Public Works loans 203,171,000

1933 Expenditures (Actual)

Total—$5,142,953,625

Emergency—$1,277,038,167

Veterans—$763,154,886

Ind. Offices—$51,010,977

Legislative—$21,477,373

Departmental—$3,027,272,222

Including:

Cabinet agencies $713,136,517
National defense 659,119,382
Public debt interest 680,365,105
Public debt retirement 461,604,700
Rivers, harbors 118,391,256

Veterans—$491,940,000

Ind. Offices—$23,309,260

Legislative—$17,718,500

Departmental—$3,000,524,007

Including:

Cabinet agencies $307,132,400
National defense 510,129,800
Public debt interest 742,000,000
Public debt retirement 488,171,500
AAA... 514,800,000
Rivers, harbors 92,319,300

THESE tables do not include President Roosevelt's extra budget requests of $1,166,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, and $2,000,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935.

The great drop in the estimates for 1935 as compared with those for 1934 is due largely to the RFC. More than three billions is allotted for RFC in 1934; in 1935, there is a credit item for RFC of $480,436,600, representing loan payments contemplated for next year.
